church in this diocese. It is earnestly advocated by leading ciergymen of Baltimore, who see that the success of the movement does not mean the removal of the episcopal residence from Ealtimore, but the erection of a separate diocese in the District of Columbia. The grewth and importance of the parishes in Washington long ago made it apparent that such a division of the diocese of Maryland would hereafter become an administrative necessity. The site selected for the cathedral and approved by Bishop Paret is at the junction of the Woodley and Klingle roads. The choice is commended as a wise one on account of the attractiveness of the site and also, as Bishop Paret explained in an address he made recently at a meeting in this city of those who were interested in the enterprise, because it avoided terested in the enterprise, because it avoided the danger of the injury or destruction of one or two neighboring parish churches which might arise if the cathedral were located in a might arise if the cathedral were located in a thickly populated part of the city. It becomes possible, too, by choosing a site beyond the city limits to make ample provision for the future needs of the cathedral. The land chosen is now easily accessible, and it will not be many years before the growth of the city will bring it in the midst of a city population. According to Bishop Paret the sum required for the adequate endowment of the cathedral is $3,000,000, an amount which he thinks might be raised in two years when the people of Washington have done their share. It is his view that the wisest plan, when the sum he has named has been secured, is to expend the interest of the fund, one hundred and fifty thousand or so a year, in erecting the necessary buildings, retaining the principal as an endowment for the work. The bishop regards it as important to the success of the plan that around the cathedral should cluster institutions of learning and mercy. Such institutions, when placed upon a proper foundation, which the cathedral provides, would naturally enlist the interest of those who desired to contribute from their means to the advancement of education and of philanthronic work.

from their means to the advancement of ed tion and of philanthropic work. THE NATIONAL CHARACTER OF THE PROJECT. That the national character of the cathedra project and the benefits that may flow from it to Christianity throughout the land are recognized is evidenced by the following comments made by Church Notes of Boston:

"Were the contemplated structure to be but the cathedral church of the diocese of Maryland, the question would have but little interest in the other dioceses, but undoubtedly no such view of the situation will be taken. The cathedral of Washington should be the metropolitan church of the United States and it should be designed with this ultimate result in view. In time, as the merits of the provincial system become better known, Washington will become the seat of the primate of the American church

Not in church circles only, but among many clouded, and in a few minutes later the wind utside the church who recognize that the blew fiercely. enterprise promises to contribute much toward the growth of the capital as a center of culture as well as a city of splendid proportions and many attractions, interest in the Episcopal cathedral project is growing. The movement means not the erection only of a noble structure, the establishment of an Episcopal residence and the offices required for the administration of diocesan affairs, objects which in themselves appeal strongly to church and local pride, but also the location here and local pride. But also the location here of schools, hospitals and other institutions which would be welcomed by all, irrespective of church connections, as important factors in the development of Washington. In other cities, though no special effort has yet been made to awaken interest beyond the limits of this diocess, the undertaking has attracted at this diocese, the undertaking has attracted at-tention, and the advantages of having located in the capital an establishment of the scope of the capital an establishment of the scope of that proposed have received instant recognition. Where the matter has been discussed the prevailing sentiment has been that the cathedral and the institutions to cluster around it should be national in their character and scope and should be planned and endowed on a national scale. So the promoters of the enterprise are encouraged to believe that when the people of Washington have given substantial evidence of their interest in the movement by generous contributions to the fund rement by generous contributions to the fund rement by generous contributions to the fund re quired a call upon members of the church in other dioceses to aid in the establishment of a cathedral institution that will be worthy to cathedral institution that will be worthy to represent the church at the capital of the nation will meet with a liberal response. Although no systematic effort has been made so far to obtain funds some handsome contributions have been made to supplement Miss Mann's original donation of $80,000 in land for the cathedral endowment.

About noon, however, ther was a decided change, the skies becoming over-

Mrs. Palmer, wife of the Illinois Senator, who was on her way to the Capitol, had just got out of a street car and was walking to the northeast entrance to the Capitol when the gust of wind struck her, and in an instant lifted her off her feet and threw her with great force to the stone flagging. Fortunately that force to the stone flagging. Fortunately that part of her head where the hair is thickest struck the stone, and this prevented serious in-

Her head was, however, cut, and the blood flowed from the wound as she was assisted to the ladies' room of the Scaate. Senator Palmer was on the floor of the Senate at the time and was soon at the side of Mrs. Palmer. It was found upon examination that the wound was not at all serious, and, after recovering from the shock, Mrs. Palmer was driven home.

At the same instant Mrs. Palmer was thrown down two young ladies were also knocked off their feet by the wind and one of them was rendered insensible by striking her head on the marble coping near the stairs. She was picked up and taken to one of the committee rooms

Article 6 names five points which shall be submitted to the ar-bitrators in order that the award shall embrace a decision upon each of the points. These points are as follows: (1.) What exclusive jurisdiction in the sea known as the Bering sea and what exclusive rights in the seal fisheries therein did Russia assert and exercise prior and up to the time of the cession of Alaska to the United States. (2.) How far were these claims of jurisdiction as to the seal fisheries recognized and conceded by Great Britain? (3.) Was the body of water now known as Bering sea included in the phrase "Pacific ocean," as used in the treaty of 1825 between Great Britain and Russia, and what rights, if any, in the Bering sea were held and exclusively exercised by Russia after said trenty? (4.) Did not all the rights of Russia as to jurisdiction and as to the seal fisheries in Bering sea east of the water seal lisheries in Bering sea east of the water boundary in the treaty between the United States and Russia on the 30th of March, 1867, pass unimpaired to the United States under that treaty? (5.) Has the United States any right, and, if so, what right of protection or property in the fur seals frequenting the islands of the United States in Bering sea when such seals are found outside the ordinary three Bishop Paret and of the authorities of the church in this diocese. It is earnestly advocated by leading clergymen of Baltimore, who see that the success of the movement does not mean the removal of the episcopal residence from Baltimore, but the erection of a separate diocese in the District of Columbia. Mr. Linkins Complains of the Condition Which a City Street Has Been Left. Mr. William Linkins has, in a letter to Senstor McMillan, chairman of the Senate District committee, called attention to a complaint regarding the condition of the west end of F street northwest, asserting that he has appealed in vain to the District Commissioners.

Mr. Linkins says the street from Virginia to New Hampshire avenue, a distance of three squares, has been in an impassable condition for three years or more. About twenty years ago, he says, the grade of these three squares was cut down from six to twenty feet, leaving.

Mrs. W. B. King and Mr. Stone.

Among those present were Mrs. Audenreid, Miss Cales, Mrs. Green, Mrs. William Slack, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Green, Mrs. Cummins, the Misses Prall. Mrs. William Slack, Mrs. Rac, Miss Lennan, Miss Cabell, Mrs. Adee, Mr. Harry Johnson and Mr. Rice. A dainty supper was served after the music. Tonight Dr. and Mrs. Pope have invited another group of friends to a musicale.

Will sell on small cash payment rexchange for small house or houses or vacant expand. have tumbled but for extra underpinning and walls.

Relying on the grade then established as correct, Mr. Linkins says six brick houses were erected on 24th and 25th streets, but three years ago the District Commissioners again changed the grade, making a further cut on this street of from three to six feet. "An appropriation was made," Mr. Linkins continues, "to grade, lay footwalks and sewer the said three squares. This additional cut left some of the houses nearly forty feet above the carriageway. The contractor, a Mr. Lyons, was allowed to sell the surplus earth to the monument grounds, a distance of over half a mile, instead of putting it in streets much nearer that were below the grade. When the work had progressed just enough to make the carriageway impassable the work was suspended, and what should be the carriageways and footwalks have been a muisance from that day to this."

Mr. David H. McClelland and Miss Floride Josephine Maynard, daughter of Dr. John D. Maynard, were married yesterday in New York at the Bloomingdale Reformed Church. The bride wore a charming traveling costume. Mr. McClelland is well known in connection with various newspapers. He was at one time connected with the National Republican of this city. The couple will be at home at 1105 New Hampshire avenue, this city, after April 1.

A very enjoyable masquerade party was given last night at the residence of Mr. R. T. King, No. 620 B street southwest. Among those present were Misses L. Lipscomb, N. Rau, R. Rabbitt, E. Parker, T. the carriageways and footwalks have been a nuisance from that day to this."

The earth in many places over the sewers, Mr. Linkins says, has sunk several feet, making travel by carriage or on foot either impossible or dangerous. The spaces where the footwalks should be are mud holes.

Mr. Linkins refers to the excellent condition of F street from the War Department to 23d street and adds: "Why, I ask, are these outrageous discriminations allowed? The Commissioners cannot plead ignorance of the condition of these three squares, for one of them, the Engineer Commissioner, resides within sight of the anisance and not more than 500 yards therefrom, while Mr. Douglass, the president of the board, resides but a little further off, both, as I have stated, residing on the same street." Mr. Linkins makes the offer to take the members of the committee in carriages to the spot referred to by him and adds: "I want you to see for yourselves and understand the favoritism shown in making improvements in this city."

deavor of the Western Presbyterian Church gave their third social entertainment of the season last night. The lecture room was thronged from early in the evening with the members of the society and their friends. During the evening Miss Grace Livingston, president of the Chautauqua Christian Endeavor Society, read a Christian Endeavor story of her own composition, entitled "The Parkertown Delegate," and Miss May E. Smith rendered a plano solo.

On Tuesday evening the home of Miss Zare

Baldwin, 27 K street northeast, was the scene of a pleasant surprise party. The gathering was composed of members of the Golden Rod Pleasure Club, of which Miss Baldwin is an acknowledged favorite. During the entire evening the soul of merriment ruled supreme.

Interesting leap year games and other pas-times were indulged in to a late hour, after which refreshments were served. Among those present were the Misses McCarthy, Miss Byam of Rome, N. Y., Misses Baldwin, Thompson, Reed and Kemp, Mr. M. J. Sweeney of Manchester, N. H., Messrs, Lee, Langley, Grogan, Kemp, Birch, Quinn, Bowlet and Dr. T. H. Sweeney.
